I am applying for the Family Paralegal role at your Marlow firm, as advertised through Reed. My background in client-facing legal work, file management from instruction to resolution, and supporting experienced fee earners on complex matters makes me well suited to contribute to your Family Law team from day one.

At Citizens Advice East Berkshire, I advise clients daily on family, housing, employment and welfare matters — taking detailed factual statements, identifying legal and evidential issues, and translating procedural requirements into clear, practical guidance for people in often difficult circumstances. I manage files end-to-end: drafting correspondence, preparing document schedules, maintaining confidential records and meeting firm deadlines. This has developed both my client-facing judgement and my ability to handle competing priorities across a busy caseload.

During my year at Bryan Cave Leighton Paisner, I supported fee earners on real estate disputes and international arbitration, preparing hearing bundles, assisting with skeleton arguments and court materials, conducting legal research, and maintaining structured case files under iManage. I became the sole junior supporting an arbitration team in the lead-up to a significant deadline, coordinating documents and tracking outstanding actions to ensure on-time submission — an experience that sharpened my attention to detail and my ability to work reliably under pressure.

I am drawn to private practice family law because of the direct impact on clients at pivotal moments. The combination of procedural rigour, sensitive client communication and substantive legal complexity is exactly where my skills and interests lie. Your firm's reputation for high-quality family work and the clear progression this role offers are both important to me.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how I can support your team. I am available at short notice and based locally in Maidenhead.
