Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to apply for the Private Client Paralegal position at your Wokingham office, as advertised through Faith Recruitment. I am a law graduate with hands-on paralegal experience and I am looking to build a long-term career in private client law within a supportive, high-quality team.

My background spans client-facing advisory work, drafting, case file management and legal research across a range of practice areas. At Citizens Advice East Berkshire, I advise clients daily on matters that frequently intersect with private client concerns — including welfare entitlements, family arrangements and debt — taking detailed factual statements, identifying relevant legal issues and translating complex rules into clear, practical guidance. Managing matters from instruction through to submission has given me a strong foundation in the procedural and organisational disciplines that private client work demands.

During my year-long placement at Bryan Cave Leighton Paisner, I worked across international arbitration and real estate disputes, drafting procedural documents, preparing hearing bundles, conducting legal research and maintaining structured case files across several concurrent matters. I am comfortable working to tight deadlines, coordinating with clients and external parties, and managing large volumes of confidential documentation with care.

I also hold an LLM in Comparative and International Dispute Resolution (Merit) from Queen Mary University of London, alongside an LLB (2:1) from UCL, where I studied Advanced Contract Law, Commercial Law and Company Law. My LLM dissertation on the development of GDPR across jurisdictions was awarded a Distinction.

I am drawn to private client work because of its client-focused nature and the responsibility it carries — helping individuals and families navigate significant personal decisions. The opportunity to join a Legal 500 leading firm with an experienced, established team in Wokingham is genuinely compelling, and I am based locally in the Berkshire area.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss my application further.

Yours sincerely,
Maria Fernanda Silva
