Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Property Paralegal role at Law Absolute because my year at BCLP, working across real estate disputes alongside international arbitration, gave me direct exposure to property law in a commercial context, and I want to build on that foundation in an in-house setting.

At BCLP's Real Estate Disputes team I prepared electronic hearing bundles, reviewed documents across multiple concurrent matters, assisted with skeleton arguments, and maintained matter records on iManage. Competing deadlines across several live matters meant I had to triage work carefully and keep case files consistently accurate, since errors at that stage would carry through to court. That kind of file discipline and deadline management is directly relevant to maintaining property documentation and compliance processes across a commercial portfolio.

The in-house dimension of this role appeals to me for a specific reason. At BCLP I was always working one step removed from the business itself. At Adobe, where I reviewed and amended software licensing agreements and coordinated contractual queries with sales and international business teams, I could see how much more immediate the legal work felt when it sat inside the organisation it was serving. Supporting senior leadership directly, and taking real ownership of documentation rather than contributing to a fee-earner's output, is a step I am ready for.

At Citizens Advice I currently manage matters from first interview through to submission, drafting correspondence, preparing document schedules and maintaining confidential case records to tight deadlines across a high volume of files. That has sharpened the organisational habits that a varied, fast-moving property portfolio requires: keeping records current, spotting gaps before they become problems, and communicating clearly with clients about where things stand.

The role's focus on a growing, commercially active property business suits my background well. I am comfortable working with high document volumes, coordinating with external parties and senior stakeholders, and keeping compliance processes on track without close supervision.

Yours sincerely,
Maria Silva
