Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Private Client Legal Assistant role at Mallory Pryce in Epsom. My background in case management, client communication and document handling at BCLP and Citizens Advice gives me a solid foundation for supporting a busy private client caseload, even though my experience has been in disputes and welfare law rather than wills and probate specifically.

At Citizens Advice East Berkshire I manage matters from initial client interview through to submission. That means taking detailed factual statements, identifying evidential gaps, drafting correspondence, preparing document schedules and maintaining confidential case records, all while advising vulnerable clients in plain terms on complex procedural requirements. The work has sharpened my ability to handle competing priorities carefully and to communicate sensitively with people who are often anxious or in difficult circumstances, which I think transfers directly to private client work where clients may be dealing with bereavement or loss of capacity.

At BCLP I spent six months in Real Estate Disputes supporting a team with several active matters running at the same time. I prepared electronic hearing bundles, maintained structured files in iManage, tracked procedural deadlines and assisted with court filings. Around a significant submission deadline in the arbitration team, I became the main junior coordinating documents and outstanding actions across the matter. Managing that kind of volume carefully, without letting things slip, is exactly the discipline a busy probate and estate administration caseload requires.

Mallory Pryce's emphasis on proactive case progression and high client care standards appeals to me precisely because those are the areas where I think administrative and technical support makes the most visible difference to a client's experience. Private client work is also an area I want to develop in, and joining a firm that values continuous professional development would give me a structured environment to build that specialism properly.

I would welcome the chance to discuss how my background fits the role.

Yours sincerely,
Maria Silva
