Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Legal Secretary / Legal Assistant role in your Conveyancing team because my administrative and case management experience at a commercial law firm translates directly into the day-to-day work the role requires, and conveyancing is an area I already have some grounding in through my real estate disputes work at BCLP.

During my six months in BCLP's Real Estate Disputes team, I supported several matters running concurrently, each at different procedural stages. I prepared electronic hearing bundles, assisted with skeleton arguments, maintained matter records on iManage, and handled court filings and hearing arrangements while keeping track of deadlines across the whole caseload. Managing competing priorities without things slipping was something I had to get right from the start, and the fact that I was trusted with file and deadline management across multiple matters throughout the rotation gives me confidence I can do the same in a conveyancing context.

Since July 2026 I have been advising clients at Citizens Advice East Berkshire on housing and other matters. I take detailed factual statements, draft correspondence, prepare document schedules and maintain confidential case records from instruction through to submission. A lot of the clients I work with are in difficult situations, so being clear, organised and reliable in how I communicate with them is important. That combination of careful administration and direct client contact is something I would bring to supporting a conveyancing team.

What appeals to me about this role specifically is that it builds on the real estate and file-management side of my experience rather than being a lateral move into an unrelated area. Canary Wharf is also a practical location for me. I am available to start promptly and would welcome the chance to discuss the role further.

Yours sincerely,
Maria Silva
